From the Principal

Dear Parents and Carers,

On Friday evening the P&C held a Bush Dance for our school community. It was a fabulous night and the feedback from many of the families in attendance was that we must certainly do it again next year. I would certainly agree with that. The event catered for people of all ages with children, parents and grandparents all joining into the fun. It was delightful to see so many of our families chatting together on their picnic rugs one minute, and then dancing up a storm the next. Thank you to the P&C organisers for a great family evening and one which certainly helps to build deeper friendships across our school community.

Our new playground on the Finlay campus is about to open and it looks fantastic. The money for this improvement has been donated by all of you through your support of the P&C. The development has a natural appearance which is in keeping with the school environment and it certainly increases the play opportunities for the students. After much talk about the playground it is lovely to finally have it finished. Thank you again to our P&C for making this possible.

The year has passed quickly and tomorrow it is once again time for our annual Book Fair. The Book Fair will be held in the hall and we hope that everyone will take time to visit the hall to search for their perfect book. You may also wish to use this occasion to purchase Christmas or birthday presents for family and friends.

Students will visit with their classes throughout the day tomorrow and we invite all families to attend from 2:30-5:30pm in the school hall. There will also be book sales on Thursday, 29th October from 8:00-9:30am.

World Teachers’ Day is rapidly approaching and this provides an excellent opportunity for us to acknowledge the invaluable contributions of our teachers. Thank you to our caring, dedicated, and hardworking team of teachers for the wonderful job that they do at Warrawee. You really do make a difference and we thank you for all that you do in and beyond the classroom.

Yesterday we held our second Kindergarten transition session. We have a wonderful group of Kindergarten students starting next year. They moved into their groups and settled quickly into their classrooms and warmly welcomed them to the school. They have done an amazing job. Parents currently at the school have contributed in a range of ways to each of these mornings as well by helping at the uniform stall, providing morning tea and also speaking so positively to others about our school. Thank you all.

On Monday the students in Years 3, 4, 5 and 6 will be listening to a talk on cyber safety which is to be presented by a police officer that has extensive experience in this area. Cyber safety is a growing area of concern both at home and at school and therefore we want to increase student awareness of the issues involved. I will certainly pass on to you any tips for parents that are mentioned during the talks.

Kind regards,

Carrie Robertson

WHOOPING COUGH ALERT

Whooping cough alert

Dear Principal,

There has been a large increase in whooping cough notifications in NSW during 2014 and 2015. A large part of this increase has been among school-aged children.

NSW Health would like to provide information about whooping cough to parents and carers of children attending NSW schools.

I am writing to request that you include the attached text in your next school newsletter or other appropriate communication tool to encourage early diagnosis and treatment of those with the infection, and to help reduce the spread of infection in the community.

This information is also available on the NSW Health website:

You are invited to cut and paste this text into your school's newsletter or other appropriate communication tool as required.

Please notify your local public health unit on 1300 066 055 if you are aware of new cases of whooping cough in your school. This is a requirement of the NSW Public Health Act 2010.

Yours sincerely,

Dr Vicky Shepperd

Director Communicable Disease Branch

Whooping cough information for schools

There is an outbreak of whooping cough (pertussis) in NSW, mainly affecting school-aged children.

Coughing spreads the infection to others nearby. Whooping cough can spread to anyone at home, including younger brothers and sisters. Whooping cough can be especially dangerous for babies.

Whooping cough starts like a cold and progresses to bouts of coughing that can last for many weeks. The infection can occur even in fully-vaccinated children. Older children may just have a cough that is persistent and may be worse at night.

- Children with these symptoms should see a doctor.

- If your doctor diagnoses whooping cough in your school-aged child, please let the school know and keep your child at home until they have taken 5 days of antibiotics. Keep coughing children away from babies.

- Whooping cough vaccines give good protection against infection but immunity fades with time. Check that all your children are up to date with their vaccines, due at 6 weeks, 4 months, 6 months, 4 years and 12 years of age (offered to all Year 7 students through the NSW school-based vaccination program). A booster is also recommended at 18 months of age.

A booster dose of vaccine is also recommended for adults that are in contact with young children, such as school staff and parents. Pregnant women are recommended to have a booster dose during each pregnancy and this is funded by NSW Health. Those who are new parents or carers of babies should consult their general practitioner about appropriate immunisation.

Your local public health unit can provide advice about whooping cough on 1300 066 055 or visit the NSW Health website for information for childcare and schools about whooping cough.

Families That Work Well

Families have changed a lot in recent years. There are so many different types of family and parenting styles these days. The family your child grows up in influences how they will cope with life. Just as a loving, caring family can create good self-esteem in a child, an unhappy, fearful family can lead to low self-esteem and problems for a child.

Show affection, encouragement and appreciation
Let your child know what you love about them
Give hugs, be thoughtful and kind
Don’t use put-downs, threaten or blame your child – it makes them feel hopeless

Make family time
Take time to listen to your children – try and work out the feelings behind their words and actions and don’t jump in with answers or criticisms
Do fun things together – play games, go on outings, play sport, go for a walk, share hobbies
Share mealtimes together and turn off the TV – talk to each other about what’s been happening
Find time to talk to your children – sometimes this can be one-on-one or as a whole family or even when you are doing chores together or driving them to school
Share your feelings appropriately so your children learn that it’s OK for them to share their feelings

Keep in touch with friends and relatives
The more a family is isolated from others, the more chance there will be problems
Knowing there are people to turn to when things get tough will make a difference to your child’s ability to make friends and happiness

Accept the differences in each person
No one should be left out or made to feel like the odd one out in a family
Allow each person to be excited about their personal interests, show respect and be patient

Encourage children to take on more responsibility as they get older
Allow them to have a say in their own lives
Use encouragement and humour to keep control, not punishment or threats

It is good for families to celebrate special occasions and have traditions for what happens at these times
